Macro backdrop

Stock volatility persisted through June as markets juggled concerns around the highly transmissible Delta COVID-19 variant against promising vaccination rates and continued re-opening of most developed economies. Meanwhile a hawkish shift by the US Federal Reserve (Fed), indicating that the first interest rate hike could be brought forward, took a considerable amount of heat out of the reflation trade.

Fund performance and activity

Given this back drop it was unsurprising to see our rate sensitive holdings give back some ground. These included Van Lanschot Kempen, AIB, Aareal Bank and Credito Emiliano. We remain holders of each company and more broadly we believe the sector could be well supported if the regulatory restriction on dividends were to be lifted in the second half of the year.

A couple of negative contributors at the stock level, such as Clinigen (due to a profit warning) and Greencore (which reported increasing cost inflation, predominantly due to staff costs), possibly exaggerated the fund's correlation to the reflation trade. However, we view our overall positioning as broadly balanced. The Greencore announcement does serve to remind us that only those businesses with pricing power will be able to prosper in this more inflationary environment.

On the positive side, advertising-technology company Criteo did well following the news that Google Chrome will delay the phase-out of third-party cookies. While offering an immediate boost to forecasts, part of the reason we own the shares is that we believe it could be more resilient in a post-cookie world, and the company's opportunity to prove this has now been delayed further. Also adding to returns were two recent initial public offerings (IPOs) which included Bike24, which is Europe's leading cycling, outdoor, fitness and swimming products webshop, and Media and Games Invest, which we commented on during last month's commentary.

Other new purchases included C&C group, a cider and beer manufacturer with exposure to a UK consumer boasting record high savings ratios, and BIFFA plc, a waste recycling company where we like its green initiatives - especially its state-of-the-art polyethylene terephthalate (PET) plastic bottle recycling facility in County Durham. The plant processes PET plastic into high-purity plastic pellets which can be used for a range of applications ranging from food and beverage packaging to clothing. We also bought a German IPO Cherry AG, a globally active manufacturer of high-end switches for mechanical keyboards and computer input devices.

Outlook/strategy

We continue to operate a relatively balanced portfolio with exposure to both high growth and what we see as attractively valued shares. The inflation debate will likely swing back and forth from being top of investors' agenda to a nagging risk factor depending on the data each month, but it is our view that valuation, as a fundamental factor in stock selection, will be more significant in the coming years than it has been for the past decade.
