Objectives and investment policy

The Sub-Fund is passively managed and aims to track the performance of the Solactive GBS United States 500 Index, before fees and expenses, to within an acceptable tracking error. There is no guarantee that the Sub-Fund will achieve its investment objective. The Sub-Fund seeks to provide exposure to the Solactive GBS United States 500 Index, which measures the performance of large-capitalisation equity securities listed in the United States. To achieve its objective, the Sub-Fund primarily uses financial derivative instruments, in particular total return swaps. When using total return swaps, the Sub-Fund invests in a portfolio of global developed market equities and exchanges the returns of those investments with counterparties in order to obtain the performance of the Index. The Sub-Fund will typically obtain exposure to the Index using derivatives, in particular total return swaps. The investment manager may adjust the Sub-Fund's investments and use derivatives in order to maintain this exposure over time. Where investment in total return swaps is not possible or practicable, the Sub-Fund may use other derivative instruments to achieve exposure to the Index or may invest in a portfolio of equity securities that reflects, as far as possible and practicable, the composition of the Index.

This indicator is based on historical data and may not be a reliable indication of the future risk and reward profile of the Share Class.

The risk category shown is not guaranteed and may shift over time.

The lowest category (Category 1) does not mean 'risk free'.

The Share Class is rated 6 due to the nature of its investments and the frequency of price movement which include the following risks which may impact the value of the Share Class or expose it to losses.

– No capital protection: The value of your investment may go down as well as up and you may not get back the amount you invested.

– Liquidity risk: Lower liquidity means there are insufficient buyers or sellers to allow the Sub-Fund to sell or buy investments readily. Neither the Index provider nor the issuer make any representation or forecast on liquidity.

No capital protection: The value of your investment may go down as well as up and you may not get back the amount you invested.
Equities: Shares can lose value rapidly and typically involve higher risks than bonds or money market instruments. The value of your investment may fall as a result
Country or region: High exposure to a particular country or geographical region carries a higher level of risk than a more broadly diversified portfolio.
Index tracking: The performance of the Sub-Fund is not expected to precisely match the performance of the index at all times and the deduction of fees and expenses means the Sub-Fund might deliver a lower total return than the index.
Derivative to achieve objective: Derivatives may be used to help achieve the investment objective. This introduces other risks, in particular that a counterparty may not meet its contractual obligations.
Total return swaps: Swap returns are subject to the returns of the index or reference assets. Valuations of investments, the index tracked or replicated, or the financial instruments used to track or replicate the index may, in certain circumstances, only be available from a limited number of market participants who may also act as counterparties to these transactions. This means valuations can be subjective, and different sources may provide significantly different values.
Liquidity: Securities could become hard to value or to sell at a desired time and price, especially in extreme market conditions when asset prices may be falling, increasing the risk of investment losses.
Counterparty/operational: Losses could be incurred if a counterparty became unwilling or unable to meet its obligations, or as a result of failure or delay in operational processes or the failure of a third party provider.
