Fund performance and activity

The fund returned 4.9% and underperformed its FTSE All-Share Index benchmark which returned 5.6% (both on a total return basis). During the same time period the IA UK Equity Income sector rose 5.0%.

At the sector level the largest detractor from relative performance during the quarter was holding comparatively less than the benchmark in the consumer staples sector, where large index constituents such as alcoholic beverages company Diageo (not held in the portfolio) performed well. The industrial holdings within the portfolio continued to perform well as the global economy recovers; at the sector level this was the largest contributor to relative performance. Within this sector vehicle hire company Redde Northgate performed well following better than expected full-year results. It continued to see good demand for flexible van hire as construction activity recovered and strong ecommerce demand meant a need for last mile delivery (in other words white vans). There also continued to be takeover interest within the portfolio with two bids received from private equity - one for St Modwen Properties and one for Senior (both companies were among the top contributors to performance as a result).

During the second quarter we bought new positions in DCC, Devro and Jupiter Fund Management. DCC distributes (among other products) liquefied petroleum gas and heating oil for a range of commercial and domestic customers. In our view the de-rating of the shares in recent years failed to reflect the history of attractive returns on capital and earnings growth. Devro makes collagen casing products (for sausages). The company is one of two global market leaders and was trading at a significant valuation discount to its main competitor (a company called Viscofan). Under a new management team its debt has been reduced, and organic growth has improved recently. These purchases were funded by selling out of St Modwen Properties after a takeover offer from Blackstone, as well as reductions elsewhere including Ienergizer, Halfords and BT.

Outlook/strategy

We continue to be encouraged by what we are hearing from companies about current trading conditions. In many cases companies have been reporting sales that have already recovered to (or in some cases above) 2019 levels. This strength, aside from in the most affected areas such as civil aerospace, is broad across a number of end markets including advertising, construction and areas of consumer spending (such as car and home sales). This is a faster recovery than we, and many companies, were anticipating. This recovery comes at a time when many companies had substantially reduced costs during the peak of the pandemic last year, and therefore there could be a faster than forecasted earnings recovery if current trading levels are sustained. This will depend on several factors including the final stages of 'opening up' the domestic economy, the progression of unemployment levels as the furlough scheme begins to wind down, and consumer willingness to spend their excess savings built up over the course of the pandemic.
